

Food Safety Level 1

 3 Hour course

Who is it for?

Unaccredited

This Level 1 Food Hygiene and Safety course is designed for workers who are not directly involved with the preparation or handling of high-risk foods but work in an environment where food is present or handled elsewhere. This also includes those who work with wrapped or pre-packaged foods. For example:

Front of house employees.

Checkout staff.

Waiters.

Bar workers.

Food delivery drivers and riders.

Kitchen porters.

Low-risk food retailers (e.g. newsagents, sweet shops).

Warehouse staff.

If your role involves directly handling or preparing food, then you need to take Level 2 Food Hygiene and Safety (available for retail, catering, and manufacturing) in order to comply with food handlers' legal obligations.

What's Covered?

Syllabus

- Bacteriology and Food Poisoning
- Food Contamination and Personal Hygiene
- Food Storage

Certification

On successful completion of the course, all delegates will receive a Certificate of Attendance which we recommend is renewed every year

Attendance

The maximum number of delegates permitted on each course is 12, and they must attend the entire course duration to be eligible to gain the Certificate of Attendance.
